1. SCOPE

We are pleased to announce that the International Workshop on Modern Science and Technology 2014 will be held at Wuhan University of Science and Technology from October 30 to 31, 2014.

The International Workshop on Modern Science and Technology (IWMST) is a forum of biannual conferences jointly sponsored by 5 technology-engaged universities in East Asia for academic exchanges, which include Chin-Yi University of Technology (NCUT), Harbin Engineering University (HEU), Kitami Institute of Technology (KIT), The University of Electro-Communications(UEC), and Wuhan University of Science and Technology (WUST). Since its inception at HEU in 2000, IWMST has provided excellent opportunities for researchers from the 5-member university alliance to share and exchange ideas and experiences on science and technology. The IWMST 2014 at WUST aims to continue to enhance such successful partnership.
