Scientific English Class “SEC”

In the Scientific English class, participants will have the opportunity to learn alongside KMUTT students, enhancing their English skills for scientific communication. Through interactive activities, they will practice reading, writing, speaking, and listening in scientific contexts while expanding their vocabulary. This collaborative learning environment also allows students to make new friends, exchange ideas, and experience a diverse classroom setting.

PBL (Project Based Learning)

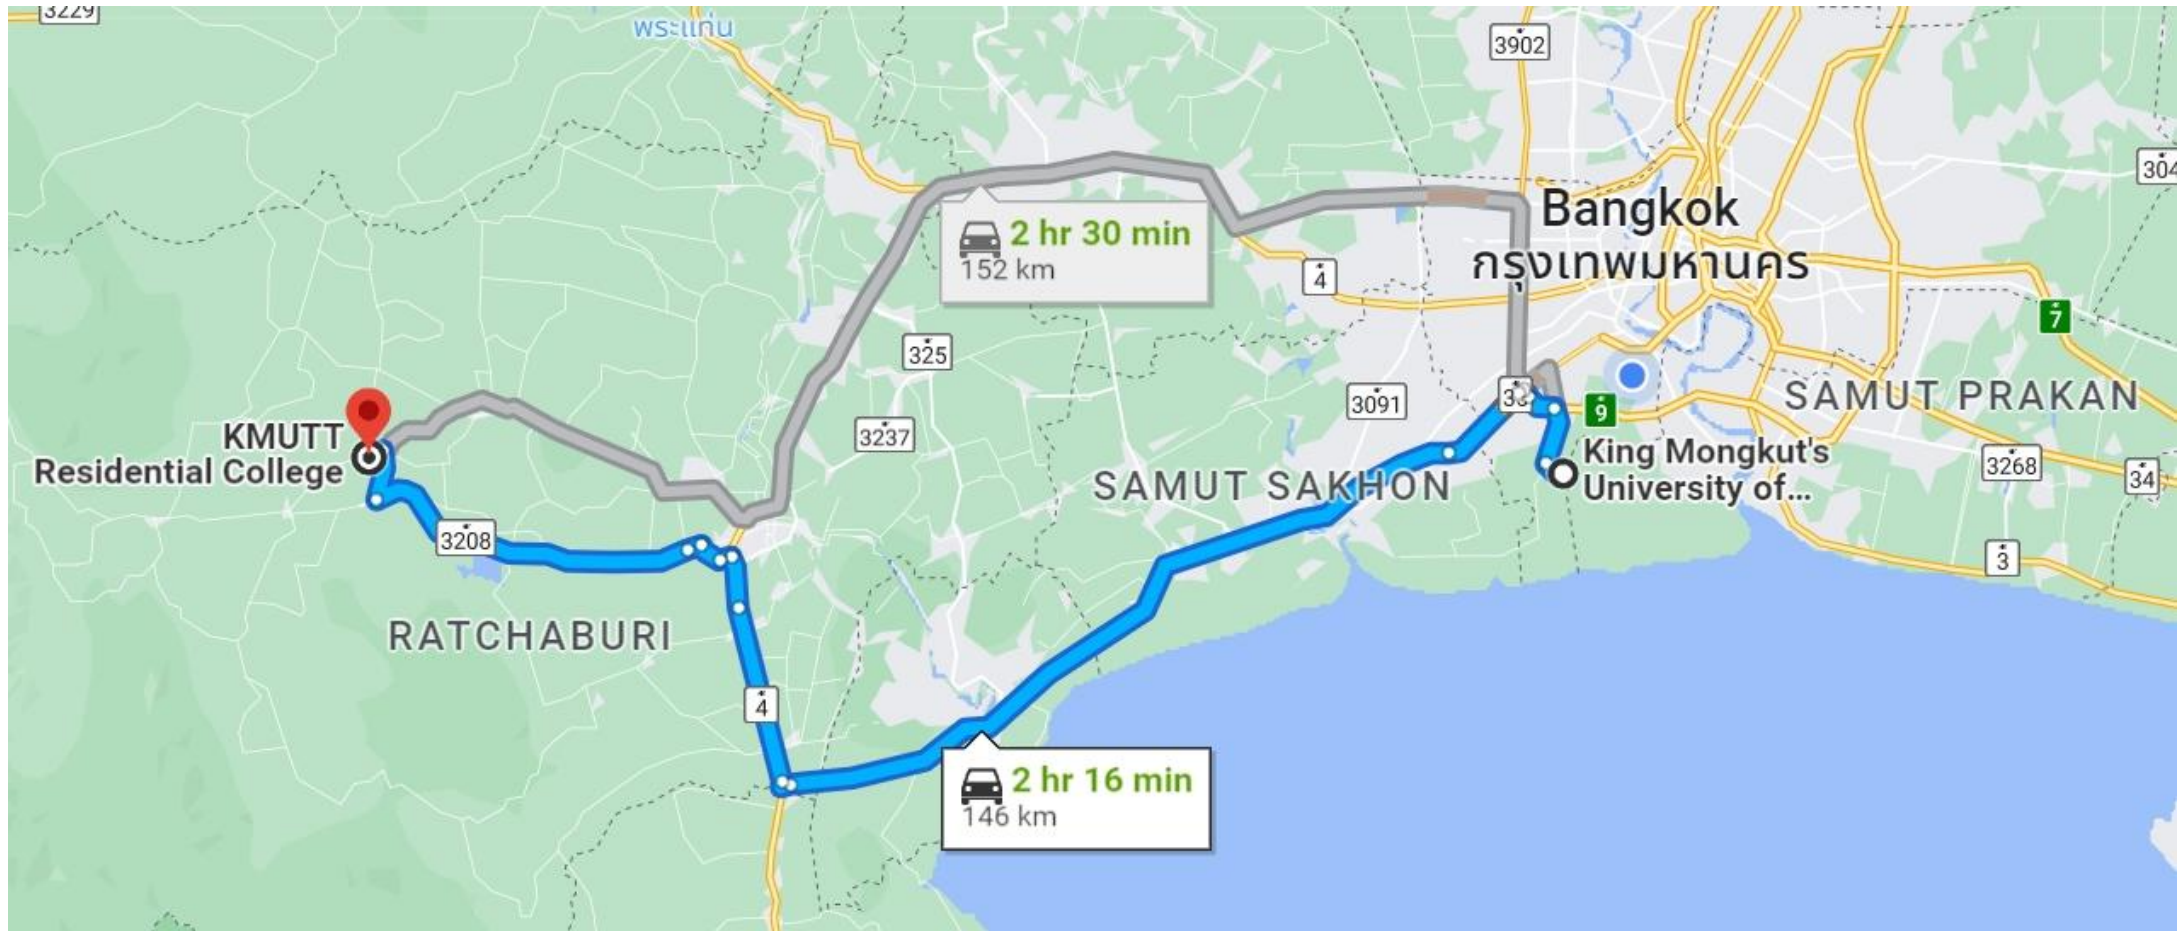

สำนักงานกิจการต่างประเทศ
International Affairs Office (IA)

Project-Based Learning (PBL) at KMUTT involves participants working on mini-projects focused on solving local community problems that KMUTT actively supports through science, technology, and research-based knowledge. These projects allow students to apply their expertise in science, engineering, and soft skills while collaborating with KMUTT students. The topics are scoped and provided by KMUTT professors and teams. During the orientation, students receive a brief lecture on how to approach their projects. Afterward, they will conduct surveys in the local community, work in groups, and present their findings through an oral presentation and poster at the Bangmod campus. Throughout the PBL experience, international students will also explore local attractions in Ratchaburi province, forge new friendships, and enjoy experiences beyond the city.
